

Dr Guan-Yuan JIN

Guan-Yuan Jin, MD, C.Ac. Dipl.Ac & C.H. (NCCAOM), has a rich clinical and research experience of 50 years in both TCM and Western medicine, Dr. Jin has authored 25 academic/professional books, including representative works such as Contemporary Medical Acupuncture - A Systems Approach (Springer Publishers & Higher Education Press-China, 2007), The Art and Science of Acupuncture (2007), Clinical Reflexology of Acupuncture and Moxibustion (Chinese Version, Beijing Science & Tech Press, 2004), Self-Healing with Chinese Medicine (2004), Acupuncture and Cybernetics (Chinese Version 1977), Whole Body Reflex Zones (1998), Contemporary Chronomedicine (Chinese Version 1993), Biological Clock and Health (Chinese Version 1988), The Spell of Hypertension (Chinese Version 2010), and Wellness in Sickness- Novel Disease-fighting Strategies (Chinese Version 2013).

Dr. Jin's study of TCM and Acupuncture began in his teenage years and apprenticed under the tutelage of Master Jiao, Mianzhai, Prof. Zheng, Kuishan, and Prof. Wei, Jia, etc. In 1982, he graduated from Zhejiang Medical University, China, where he later taught Physiology and engaged in numerous researches on acupuncture. After coming to US in the late 1980's, Dr. Jin earned a post-doctoral fellowship of Radiology at Medical College of Wisconsin, and became one of 'grandfather' acupuncturists and Chinese herbologists certified by NCCAOM, USA. At his busy private practice (www.AceAcupuncture.com) in Milwaukee, WI, Dr. Jin specializes in treating a myriad of intractable cases with a variety of TCM therapeutics, including acupuncture, Chinese herbs, and Qigong therapy, striving for "Highest Successes with Least Sessions." In January of 2011, Dr. Jin was featured by Milwaukee Magazine as BEST acupuncturist in WI, voted by more than 500 holistic practitioners and acupuncture peer in the region. In his free time, Dr. Jin also contributes significantly on establishing networks among top professionals of TCM in the North America. In 2010, he founded TCMExperts.com in the hope to help prospective TCM patients across America to find a quality TCM expert in their neighborhood.

Since 2005, Dr. Jin has been serving as the Honorary Professor at Guangzhou University of CM, PRC and annually visits the school and its affiliated Guangdong Provincial TCM hospital to provide academic/clinical guidance. As the president of International Institute of Holistic Medicine, USA (www.iihmed.org), Dr. Jin is a strong advocate in raising public awareness of TCM through lectures at local communities as well as national and international conferences. From 1993-2005, he served as an Acupuncture Advisor for the State of Wisconsin, and under his efforts, the Governor of Wisconsin, and Mayors of Milwaukee and Brookfield proclaimed “Acupuncture and Oriental Medicine Day” and “World Tai Chi and Qigong Day”, respectively. In 2007, at the conference of World Federation of Acupuncture-Moxibustion Societies (WFAS) celebrating its 20 year anniversary in Beijing, China, in recognition of Dr. Jin’s contribution to the establishment of Systems Medicine, Dr. Jin was invited to co-chair the forum of modern acupuncture meridian research. Since December, 2015, Dr Jin has been appointed as one of Honorary clinical specialists of TCM, Beijing University of CM.