

Professor ZHU, Xin-Hong

Dr. Xin-hong Zhu is a professor and the deputy director of Department of Neurobiology, Southern Medical University. He graduated from Henan University of Traditional Chinese Medicine (TCM) in 1991 and received his Ph. D. from The First Military Medical University in 2005. He worked as a visiting scholar at Medical College of Georgia at Augusta from January 2009 to August 2010. He was awarded the Pearl River scholar in 2011 and the National Science Fund for Distinguished Young Scholars in 2013. His main research interests focus on the mechanism of astrocytic dysfunction underlying Major depressive disorder (MDD) and drug development for antidepressant from TCM.