

Professor ZHANG, Hong

Ms. Hong Zhang, professor of Chengdu University of TCM, PhD supervisor, has been doing clinical work, teaching work and conducting researches for 32 years. She has used her extensive training and experience to provide quality health care to her patients as well as rigorous and superior training to her students. Additionally, she has developed a reputation for conducting high caliber research in the fields of acupuncture and moxibustion. Having presided over the National Natural Fund of China and other research projects, she has undertaken 30 more research projects and published nearly 60 academic papers. She has also won the provincial and municipal government Teaching and Science Technology Achievements Award. She has won various academic title and positions, such as standing director of Sichuan Provincial Association of Traditional Chinese Medicine, Deputy chairman of the committee of sichuan provincial association of acupuncture and moxibustion, Member of special committee of academy of psychosomatic medicine of integrated traditional and Western medicine in China, etc.